Re: HB 456

I believe sex-ed is important in school as early as possible because knowing the truth can prevent alot of unwanted pregnancies. In my highschool, in the freshman class alone there were over 30 pregnant females and even more that already had children. When asked why, they said they didn't think they could get pregnant the first time or right after they had had a child. It is unreal how many people are misinformed about sex in general. Or even about STD's & STI's the people that have no clue what they even are, usually are the main one's spreading them around. This was at least the case in my highschool, so I'm sure it was not the only one in the world that this happened in.

Sincerely,
