

The Montana State Library has three major divisions: the Talking Book Library, the Digital Library, and a division dealing with Library Development. General administrative support is provided through a small central services section, and information technology support is provided through our Digital Library division.