Re: House Bill 324

William E. Gladstone said,

"Good laws make it easier to do right and harder to do wrong."

May I ask, what is the intention of the drafter of this bill? Is it to make a good law? Is it to make it easier to do right and harder to do wrong? Why would the supporters of this bill desire to hinder those that might approach people who are entering medical facilities?

Obviously this bill is specifically targeted at a small group of people and is centered around abortion facilities, which brings us back to the paramount crisis of our generation and the very cornerstone of liberty: the right to life.

You all know that an unborn child is a human. You know that to kill a human child is murder, that it violates God's law, and that it is wrong. Wouldn't the person who seeks to peacefully and reasonably intercede for that child and prevent a wrong, be doing what is right?

"Good laws make it easier to do right and harder to do wrong."

Thomas Jefferson said, "The God who gave us life, gave us liberty."

Please make good laws. Please honor the God who gives us life and liberty.
Please vote against House Bill 324.

Thank you.
