Speaking as a Rancher with large hooved animals

Disclosure: I'm not a Lobbyist. I'm here in honor of my deceased friend Vicki Greathouse that, with her husband went up and down the Bitterroot Valley holding classes on the insidious ICLEI plan whos eventual goal is to destroy land ownership and industry.

Four years ago: Psssssst....psssssst....hey...Niki, can I tell you something? There is an organization that is in our communities with a plan to take away your property rights! I will only tell you a piece of it tonight; it's too overwhelming to hear it all in one sitting. Well, I thought she was a little touched!

As it disrobed itself, I found that ski runs, grazing livestock, plowing of soil, building fences, industry in general, power lines, fish ponds, aquaculture, rangelands, large hooved animals, single family homes, paved roads, logging, dams, farming and tens of millions of acres of land that people have their homes on are "not sustainable".

I've enclosed a red stained map that looks like Verizon phone coverage across the U.S. Connective corridors benefiting animals, not humans from Canada to Mexico. This is part of the plan.

The hushed voices whispering about Agenda 21 are now out of the closet so to speak....the Republican National Committee on 1-13-12 added it to their platform to "Expose United Nations Agenda 21- a comprehensive plan of extreme environmentalism, social engineering and global political control..." and "sustainable development views that privately owned farms, private car ownership and individual travel choices, single family ownership are destructive to the environment, and" dangerous intent of the plan, was never endorsed by our US Senate"

Sadly, three counties out of 56 in Montana are on the list as dues paying members that have signed on to the UN Charter as of yesterday.

States that have killed it are Tennessee, Alabama and Kansas. Virginia has a bill up now. Utah opted out of Agenda 21 Rural Council Exec Order created by Executive Order 13575 placing 23 agencies over all rural America. The U.S. Forestry has taken on much of the UN language and guidelines creating lawsuits.

The Counties that have signed away their citizens property rights is unconstitutional. Montana and the U.S. Constitution are based on property rights.

Thomas Jefferson said “if they can take it away from you, you don’t own it”

Missoula County currently wants 50% of a persons land to go to the government if you want to do a subdivision. Rural Landscapes, View shed where you can only build on a tiny corner of your land because “it might block someone's’ view of the mountains behind as they go down the highway!”- all of this; the tools, training, visiting consultants, language, plans and facilitators with a list of questions you can ask at a meeting, are all coming to a town near you to take away what you thought you had.

Psssst.....hey.. Committee Members... take a look at the papers I’m giving to you.

Please vote YES!

Thank you.

P.S. This was an issue before there was a Tea-Party, creeping since 1990. It’s a property rights issue. Its non-partisan.
