

HOUSE JOURNAL
57TH LEGISLATURE
FIFTY-FOURTH LEGISLATIVE DAY

Helena, Montana
March 9, 2001

House Chambers
State Capitol

House convened at 1:00 p.m. Mr. Speaker in the Chair. Invocation by Representative Wolery. Pledge of Allegiance to the Flag.

Roll Call. All members present. Quorum present.

Mr. Speaker: We, your committee on Legislative Administration/Bills and Journal, having examined the daily journals for the forty-seventh, forty-eighth, and forty-ninth legislative days, find the same to be correct.

Bookout-Reinicke, Chairman

SPECIAL ORDERS OF THE DAY

Sergeant-at-Arms Ahner escorted the Senate into the House Chamber.

Speaker McGee introduced President Beck and yielded the Chair to him.

Senator Thomas moved that the body resolve itself into a joint session for the purpose of receiving the address from Montana's U.S. Senator, the Honorable Max Baucus. Motion carried.

Senator Thomas moved that President Beck be authorized to appoint a committee of four to notify Senator Baucus that the House was in joint session and ready to receive his address. Motion carried.

President Beck appointed Senators Holden and Franklin and Representatives Younkin and Tramelli and discharged them to escort the Honorable U.S. Congressman into the House Chamber.

Sergeant-at-Arms Cramer escorted Senator Max Baucus and the committee into the House Chamber.

Invocation was given by Pastor Keith Johnson of the Evangelical Covenant Church.

Pledge of Allegiance to the Flag.

After being introduced by President Beck, Senator Max Baucus delivered the following address:

Thanks for welcoming me back to the Montana Legislature. It's been a long time since I've had the pleasure of serving with you. Yet, in so many ways, it feels like it was just yesterday. I spent time working right here, sitting in your desk, Gary Forrester. Actually, it's you who is sitting in my desk!

That time shaped my views and reinforced my dedication to public service. I'm lucky to still have such good working relationships with so many of you on both sides of the aisle. Having served here only deepens my respect for everything you do. How hard you work.

It's easy for folks to be critical. But, I know the huge amount of work each one of you does for our state. Not just during these 90 days, but between sessions as well. You are all working to make this fragile and animated place we live a little bit better.

HOUSE JOURNAL
FIFTY-FOURTH LEGISLATIVE DAY - MARCH 9, 2001

I'd like to acknowledge Aubyn Curtiss, who I served with years ago. I still proudly read your update and look for your picture in the Tobacco Valley and Western News.

I'm also pleased I've developed friendships with so many of you:

Walt McNutt - I appreciate your continuing interest in Economic Development. You've been a long-time champion of the issue, and I look forward to our continuing efforts and results.

Steve Gallus - I'm very interested in the bill you're drafting to promote high technology and economic development. That's exactly the way we should be moving as a state.

Mike Taylor - I like the bill you've sponsored to move job creation functions of the Department of Commerce over to Governor Martz's office. That's a great first step to start streamlining government.

Doug Mood - I've enjoyed our meetings and talks over the last few sessions, and look forward to continued discussions of economic development.

Sam Kitzenberg - You've been extremely helpful in our education discussions, and a great champion of Glasgow, the Hi-line and Montana.

Thank you all for your incredible service to Montana. Let's now take it to the next step. Let's reach our goals by working in unison at all levels of government - federal, state, and local. Working together is what I've done since I've been in public office, and what I will continue to do for as long as I'm lucky enough to serve Montana.

I feel there's real change in the air. I feel it in Washington and here in Montana, too. And it's an exciting feeling! We're changing by realizing we have to work together. We have to make the hard decisions if we ever want to reach our goals. Just this week Governor Martz met in a breakfast with the congressional delegation in D. C. I really appreciate that. It's easy to talk the talk, but it's so nice when people walk the walk.

Conrad, Denny and I are working on putting together a Farm Bill right now. That's never happened before. The three of us sitting down at the table, talking about what we can do together to help Montanans. We're also planning on working on the next highway bill together. It's a new era with the Montana delegation.

Montanans gave me this job, just as they've given you yours, and we take that responsibility very seriously. Only by continuing to work together can we make sure that Montana is all we dream it can be.

Economic Development

As the old saying goes, "The more things change, the more they stay the same." I don't know of anywhere that saying is more fitting than Montana. Joseph Kinsey Howard's book, "Montana: High, Wide and Handsome," is a book we all should read again. Published in 1943, it's a story of Montana that could just as easily be told today.

"[Montana's] imbalance in population will affect all America; and that is the reason for singling out a state whose economy seems most precarious - in the hope that discussion of its experience may encourage sympathetic understanding of steps already taken to aid it, and help set in motion more such movements for all of the west."

Remember, that was in 1943; 58 years ago. "...a state whose economy seems most precarious." Can't you just see that as a headline in today's paper? That feeling of change I mentioned earlier - let's capture that. Move forward together and be open to change. It's what will lead us to the new, fresh solutions we need. Our goal: A headline that reads -

HOUSE JOURNAL
FIFTY-FOURTH LEGISLATIVE DAY - MARCH 9, 2001

"Montanans Embrace Change, Work Together, Reap Economic Bounty."

While embracing change, we will continue to honor the past. A past whose roots dig deep into agriculture and a land-based economy. Too often, the Old Economy is pitted against the new. This doesn't have to be an either/or situation.

For example, let's invest in research to develop new technologies for our basic industries. Combining the best of the old with the best of the new. Just look at what MSU's College of Agriculture is doing. Finding ways to apply technology to our basic industries. Especially farming. They've created alternative crops. Plants that produce fuels, oils, lubricants, pharmaceuticals.

Mark Semmens, a member of the Montana Board of Regents, recently said: "The factors that are adversely affecting our traditional industries are worldwide conditions that will not be changed by statewide policies. The reality is that if we want to gain competitive advantage with natural resource industries in Montana - or in the United States - we will do so by applying innovative technologies to resource production, extraction, and processing. And again, this comes right back to university research and education."

Change is a tough thing, but it's always for the better. It requires us to be on our toes. Nimble, creative and flexible. Just think of how many companies have gone under, and CEO's who have pulled the ripcord on the golden parachute because they wouldn't embrace new ideas. We can't let a similar fate happen to Montana. Change shouldn't be threatening. Being open, flexible and ready to seize new ideas and opportunities will lead us to the economic health we want and crave.

It's time we dig in our heels, roll up our sleeves. As author Sam Ewing once said, "Hard work spotlights the character of people: some turn up their sleeves, some turn up their noses, and some don't turn up at all."

We all know Montanans don't hesitate to roll up their sleeves and get to work. They pitch in and do the hard work. Awhile back I gave some of those hard working Montanans a call. We came up with the idea of holding an economic development summit.

We joined together last June in Great Falls with over 1,000 other hard-working Montanans for an Economic Development Summit. The enthusiasm of that crowd proved to me that we were on the right track.

Boosting our state's economy and creating good-paying jobs is important to Montanans. Let's join together to make this an annual event.

Our second summit will be this June 29th and 30th at the University of Great Falls. I know Denny mentioned to you on Monday that economic development is his number one priority. I was very pleased to hear that. This is yet another opportunity for us all to work together.

The Economic Development Action Group, led by my friend and banker from Billings, Tom Scott, was a result of the first summit. EDAG's 16 members are from all walks of life. Primarily from the private sector. They've been talking with Governor Martz and many of you, and have submitted recommendations on ways to boost the state's economy and create more good-paying jobs. Creating jobs is not a partisan issue. It's about taking care of our state. Moving us up from the bottom rung of the national economic ladder. I hope that we can all work together - and I mean that - to create more good-paying jobs so our kids can stay home.

I'd like to ask for your help and your support. Because we're all red-blooded Montanans. We're all in this together. And, we all must work together - Democrat and Republican, public and private sector, state, federal, local and tribal. Our kids' futures are just too important to let politics and partisanship get in the way. From the beginning of this economic development initiative, I've had three guiding principles:

FIFTY-FOURTH LEGISLATIVE DAY - MARCH 9, 2001

All efforts must be non-partisan.

The initiative must be private sector driven.

And, most importantly, nothing's off the table.

These are EDAG's building principles. They will drive us toward a real plan for economic development. While we're obviously not always going to agree on every single detail, we can agree on our goal. To achieve real economic health. And, I think that's something we can all agree on. It should be a priority for us all.

Education

Economic development and education are linked. Education's got to be at the top of the list because you can't have one without the other.

Education is the fertile soil from which all success grows. Look at Mike Mansfield, a statesman we all admire:

Mike was a middle school dropout. He served as a soldier and toiled as a mine mucker. His wife, Maureen, was a powerful influence and turned his life around by encouraging him to further his education. From a man who had no employment options beyond manual labor to becoming a college professor, and then a Montana and American political leader. Throughout his career, Mike said simply, but with great sincerity, Maureen's support and her encouragement of education were the foundation of his success.

Statistics show that the average high school graduate earns up to 60 percent more than the high school dropout. A college graduate earns up to 80 to 90 percent more than a high school graduate. We've got to fund education. It's that simple. I've been keeping a very close eye on the proposals that have come forward here this year, and have been excited by what I've seen:

Bob Brown's and Linda McCulloch's Education Trust Plan, introduced by Majority Leader Fred Thomas.

Leveraging the Coal Tax Trust Fund - one way or another. This is an interesting idea.

Boosting tobacco taxes. It's been tossed around in the past, and I know you're looking at it.

We also have to help our teachers. There's no reason other states in our region can afford to pay their teachers what they're worth, and we can't. We should support legislation that encourages loan forgiveness and other incentives to teach in Montana schools.

Vocational education also is key to boosting our economy. Business knows that. Educators know that. We can't forget that when making funding decisions.

As we move boldly into the New Economy, we have to be prepared by adequately training New Workers.

I implore you, as Montana's elected leaders, to give our children a world-class education so they can compete in the New Economy. Our kids - the future senator from Eureka or Representative from Sidney - deserve no less.

You have to invest before you can see a return. Education is not only an investment in our children today, but an investment that will still be delivering returns down the road so that we're not still in the same situation, the same cycle, 60 years from now.

HOUSE JOURNAL
FIFTY-FOURTH LEGISLATIVE DAY - MARCH 9, 2001

Finance/Tax Cut/Budget

Just a quick update on the issues happening back in Washington -

In January I experienced 17 Glory Days as the Chairman of the Senate Finance Committee. But, being "demoted" to Top Democrat isn't half-bad either. The new Chairman, Chuck Grassley, is a great guy to be working with. He's from Iowa - a farm state. He is not only aware of the issues affecting rural areas. He truly understands them.

President Bush has put forth a $1.6 trillion across-the-board tax cut plan, which is the main focus on Capitol Hill right now. I can tell you today - Montanans are going to get a substantial tax cut. A substantial tax cut - and they deserve it.

But, we must always protect Social Security, Medicare, and work to pay down the debt. The tax cut can only be considered in the context of those priorities.

I've met three times with President Bush on the tax cut plan. I've also met with Fed Chairman Alan Greenspan and Treasury Secretary Paul O'Neill. I've told them what I just told you - that I'm taking a cautious approach. I want to make sure that the substantial tax cut fits within the budget. We must ensure that we protect Medicare and Social Security so these programs will remain solvent for generations to come. And, we must create a universal prescription drug benefit for all seniors on Medicare. I intend to do that.

Energy

I'd like to talk about another arena where we need to see change. With our energy system. Let me again reference Howard's book to show another pattern that has emerged. One that we must get ahead of this time.

The year was 1937: "Now, however, a new frightening specter hung over the community and the state. Its name was power exhaustion. The same newspaper which reported a meager rain shower early in June also reported, less conspicuously, the closing of several units of the Anaconda Company's Great Falls zinc plant because of lack of power."

Several weeks ago I met with Steve Wright, acting administrator of the Bonneville Power Administration. BPA's proposed rate hike continues to grow. Some estimates say rates could jump 225 per cent. Wright got back to me this week and has some preliminary solutions. I'll be working with him, with the congressional delegation. And I'd really like to hear any and all ideas you have.

We're dealing with a power grid that was never meant for a deregulated market. Transmission is a large part of the problem. Even where there is enough power, getting it from where it is to where it needs to be is often impossible.

We have several options to explore including investing in generation, turbines, conservation practices, and increasing power transmission capacity. I want to make sure that we protect our jobs, our economy, and our consumers. As power rates go up, we must make sure Montanans don't suffer because other states want our power.

Conclusion

So where does this leave us? With a good base to work from.

HOUSE JOURNAL
FIFTY-FOURTH LEGISLATIVE DAY - MARCH 9, 2001

Embracing change while valuing our heritage. A place to come together and concentrate on the big picture. Economic Development. New, good-paying jobs. A great education. A tax cut that is rewarding yet protects our interests. And finding solutions for the energy shortage.

I do believe that all things can be achieved through hard work and by working together. And the more people and interests that are involved, the more work than can be accomplished.

In parting, I'd like to share some final words of Joseph Kinsey Howard's with you. He understood the privilege of being a Montanan. We must never forget what we're fighting for. Now listen very carefully to the words written a half-century ago. "The sunset holds infinite promise. Fire sweeps up from behind the Rockies to consume the universe, kindles the whole horizon, and all the great sky is flame; then suddenly it falters and fades atop the distant peaks and the lonely buttes, ebbs and is lost in secret coulees. The Montanan is both humbled and exalted by this blazing glory filling his world, yet so quickly dead; he cannot but marvel that such a puny creature as he should be privileged to stand here unharmed, and watch. But the sun's fierce ecstasy will return tomorrow night. And next year..."

Together, let's embrace change and the future. We hold the sunset's "infinite promise" in the palm of our hand. The time has come. Thank you.

The committee escorted Senator Baucus from the House Chambers.

Senator Thomas moved that the joint session for the 57th legislature be adjourned. Motion carried.

Mr. Speaker in the chair. All members present. Quorum present.
