Background Materials and Research

Topic Summary: Montana law includes four programs to offer property tax assistance to residential property taxpayers. Two of the programs are reductions in taxable value, one is an exemption for the intangible value of land, and one is an income tax credit for property taxes paid by elderly taxpayers.

The property tax assistance program for those with a fixed or limited income and the property tax assistance program for disabled veterans are provided for in Title 15, chapter 6, part 3, MCA. Both programs offer a reduction in taxable value for the primary residence owned by an eligible taxpayer. Each program has an income limit and the disabled veteran program is available to disabled veterans and surviving spouses. The taxpayer is required to certify income annually.

The intangible land value property exemption is provided for in 15-6-240, MCA. The exemption is available for the portion of the appraised value of land that exceeds 150% of the appraised value of a primary residence and improvements (unless that value is less than the statewide average value of land). The exemption is available only for property owned by the taxpayer or a family member for at least 30 years and an application is required.

The residential property tax credit for the elderly is provided for in 15-30-2337 through 15-30-2341, MCA. The credit is a refundable income tax credit based on property taxes paid, including taxes paid indirectly through rent. It differs from the programs discussed above, which reduce taxable value and result in lower taxes due. The credit is available to taxpayers 62 years old or older, who resided in Montana for at least 9 months of the previous year and rented or owned one or more dwellings for at least 6 months, and who have gross household income of $45,000 or less. The taxpayer claims the credit by filing an income tax form.
