Background Materials and Research

Topic Summary: This topic primer encompasses the history of bills during the past five sessions to change benefits or contributions in any of Montana’s 10 statewide public employee retirement systems, which are listed below:

- Teachers’ Retirement System (TRS)
- Public Employees’ Retirement System (PERS)
- Judges’ Retirement System (JRS)
- Highway Patrol Officers’ Retirement System (HPORS)
- Sheriffs’ Retirement System (SRS)
- Game Wardens’ and Peace Officers’ Retirement System (GWPORS)
- Municipal Police Officers’ Retirement System (MPORS)
- Firefighters’ Unified Retirement System (FURS)
- Volunteer Firefighters’ Compensation Act (VFCA)
- Montana University System Retirement Program (MUSRP)

The two main types of retirement plan designs are defined benefit (DB) and defined contribution (DC). Hybrid plans combine features of DB and DC plans. Except for two DC plans — the MUSRP and an optional DC plan within PERS — Montana’s public employee retirement plans are DB plans.

Under a DB plan, a retiree’s monthly benefit amount depends on a statutory formula based on years of service and salary. An actuarial valuation of each plan is conducted annually using demographic and economic assumptions to estimate how much employees and employers should contribute now as a percent of pay to fund the defined benefits payable in the future. These contributions are deposited to a pooled pension trust fund and invested by the Montana Board of Investments. Investment earnings provide 60 percent to 70 percent of the needed funding for these plans. A DB plan is considered actuarially sound if expected contributions plus investment earnings are sufficient to fully fund benefits within a 30-year amortization period for any unfunded liabilities. Unfunded liabilities are benefit and expense obligations that cannot be covered by current assets. The amortization period is the number of years required to fully pay off unfunded liabilities given current contribution rates and benefit levels.

Because benefit levels for DB plans and contribution amounts for both the DB and DC plans are set in state statute, legislators consider various bills each session that affect benefits and contributions in Montana's public employee retirement plans.

The State Administration and Veterans' Affairs Interim Committee (SAVA) exercises legislative oversight of the public pension plans during the interim. Each interim, SAVA examines the benefits and funding status of each plan and receives reports from the administrative boards for the plans and from the Montana Board of Investments.

The Teachers' Retirement Board administers the Teachers' Retirement System (TRS). The Public Employees' Retirement Board administers the other eight public employee DB retirement plans, including the state's largest plan, the Public Employees' Retirement System (PERS). Each board hires an executive director. The operational agency under the Public Employees' Retirement Board is the Montana Public Employee Retirement Administration.
