

11040-Legislative Branch

This chart shows the all funds growth in total expenditures compared to growth in inflation and to the growth in the economy since fiscal year 2002.

In general, all funds growth in total expenditures for the Legislative Branch has been between inflation adjusted for population and growth in the economy as measured by personal income.

The Legislative Branch fluctuations between fiscal years is due to the cyclical nature of legislative sessions. Appropriations for legislative sessions are expended in the odd years, increasing the overall spending for the Legislative Branch. In all years, funding for permanent legislative staff in the Legislative Services, Fiscal, and Audit Divisions is expended with increases in costs for the divisions associated with the legislative sessions. In even numbered years expenditures for interim committees are made.
